Write a program that will take a number of lines as input. Next, your program will discard everything after // until the end of the line or \n. Give the remaining parts of the lines as output. It is recommended to use pointer to solve the problem. 30% number will be deducted if you do not use pointer.